The present Purdue University calendar consists of two semesters of 16 weeks each and a summer session of eight weeks. Because of the exigencies of war, the calendar between January 1942 and June 1946 provided for continuous operation and consisted of three terms of 16 weeks each and intra-sessions during the last eight weeks of each term. The semester credit value of course was maintained for all University courses. Courses conducted for the ASTP unit were administered on a term basis of 12 weeks.
